Program Director:

Sascha Suhrke, ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, Hamburg

A Disrupted World and the Future of the Liberal Order

From 12 to 24 August 2018, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, in cooperation with the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung, holds its eighteenth annual Bucerius Summer School on Global Governance (BSS). The original idea to create such an institution harked back to Henry Kissinger's famous International Summer Seminar at Harvard University. In the 1960s, Kissinger brought together emerging leaders from all over the world for a summer course of debates and lectures. Many of the seminar's alumni went on to become ministers, renowned academics, prominent journalists – leaders in their respective fields.

Out of this year's 200 Bucerius Summer School candidates – nominated by government heads, ministers, company CEO's, university presidents, media leaders and directors of international organizations – we have invited 61 promising business representatives, politicians and academics from 33 different countries – young women and men between 28 and 36 years of age who have already acquired considerable professional experience.

The overall aim of the Bucerius Summer School is to foster leadership qualities in young professionals by involving them in an international dialogue on current political, economic, social and juridical questions. Participants are inspired by – and learn from – distinguished speakers, well-known public figures in politics, business, academia and the NGO sphere.

Georg Mascolo, Journalist, and Eberhard Sandschneider, Professor for Chinese Politics and International Relations at the Freie Universität Berlin chair the sessions of the Bucerius Summer School. The lectures and workshops will be held at the Hotel Le Méridien on the banks of the Alster, the Town Hall and at the Kampnagel Theater in Hamburg, at the Federal Ministry of Finance, the Federal Foreign Office, the Aedes Network Campus in Berlin, and at the Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn. Georg Mascolo, Eberhard Sandschneider and Program Director Sascha Suhrke with his team are responsible for the two-week program.

The Summer School's topics will touch upon urgent challenges of our time. Debates this year will focus on various geographical regions. Participants will discuss the future of multilateralism, the current situation in the Middle East, emerging powers and global governance, terrorism and extremism, globalization, German foreign policy, populism, cyber security, economic and political developments in Europe, and worldwide. In lectures and discussions, working groups and debates, this year's Bucerius Summer School will examine these developments and discuss their impact on governance and leadership in the coming years.

The Bucerius Summer School has always been more than just a high-profile conference. It is about building networks and enhancing cross-cultural cooperation of representatives from all walks of public life. To follow up on the annual meetings, we run an active alumni network. With the support of the alumni, the ZEIT-Stiftung and the Observer Research Foundation organize regional follow-up seminars. These Governance Talks have taken place in various places in the world, and recently in Cape Town, Warsaw, San Francisco, London and New York.

Since 1971, the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, one of Germany's largest private foundations, has been involved in the funding of projects in various fields of research, art and culture, as well as education and training. The ZEIT-Stiftung was established by Gerd Bucerius, the founder and publisher of Germany's leading quality weekly, DIE ZEIT. Apart from the Bucerius Law School, the Bucerius Kunst Forum in Hamburg, and other projects, the foundation runs a variety of international programs, of which the Bucerius Summer School is the most ambitious.

The Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung was established by the IT entrepreneur Heinz Nixdorf. The foundation promotes education, scientific research especially in the field of information technology, and projects devoted to the advancement of liberal democracy and public health. Its Heinz Nixdorf MuseumsForum in Paderborn is the world's largest computer museum.

The ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius and the Heinz Nixdorf Stiftung welcome all speakers and participants. We wish them fruitful discussions, new insights and valuable networking.

SCIENCE. FICTION. INTERNATIONAL POLITICS: VISIBLE AND INVISIBLE BORDERS

ANCB THE METROPOLITAN LABORATORY – AEDES NETWORK CAMPUS BERLIN

08.45 – 09.15 Bus Transfer to ANCB
Science. Fiction. International Politics: Visible and Invisible Borders

The workshop will examine questions regarding visible and invisible borders on spatial, social, cultural, technical and economical levels through the fictional narratives and places of science fiction films. This approach ensures an open, neutral discussion and enables the participants to discuss very current topics in an “abstract” and “fictional” way without putting the focus on a specific government or country of origin. The participants are encouraged to contribute their own experience or concrete examples to the discussion. Workshop in collaboration with ANCB and Nadine Godehardt, Deputy Head of Research Division Asia, German Institute for International and Security Affairs, Berlin

HOTEL LE MÉRIDIEN – CONFERENCE ROOM PALAIS

- 09.00 – 13.00 Simulation Exercise: HexGame
HexGame is a powerful simulation about country management in a situation of crisis and scarcity. It shows management challenges at different levels of government. Participants represent administration officials, regional and local leaders. The goal of each team is to provide their settlements, regions, and the countries with necessary resources, infrastructure, and services. The game is played in a series of rounds representing consecutive years. A balance between short and long-term goals is required, as well as a balance between the goals of local regions and the interests of the entire country. Players are faced with the challenges of negotiations, conflict resolution, strategy implementation, group leadership, and the allocation of resources.
Workshop with Pracownia Gier Szkoleniowych, Warsaw

Eirliani Abdul Rahman is Executive Director of YAKIN (Youth, Adult Survivors & Kin In Need) as well as Program Director at the Kailash Satyarthi Children's Foundation. In 2015, the #FullStop to #childsexualabuse campaign that she led on behalf of Nobel Peace Prize laureate Kailash Satyarthi reached 16 million people over six weeks. She won the "BMW Foundation Responsible Leaders Award" the same year. She edited

Satyarthi's book Will for Children, a collection of essays on child labor, published in 2016. Her book on true accounts by survivors of child sexual abuse Survivors: Breaking the Silence on Child Sexual Abuse was published by Marshall Cavendish Asia in 2017. She also contributed a case study to the medical textbook Essentials of Global Health to be published by Elsevier in 2018. She sits on Twitter's Trust & Safety Council and on the Community Engagement Committee of the United World College. She writes for the Huffington Post on the issues of child abuse and child online safety. She has also written for the Singapore Medical Association's newsletter on child sexual abuse. She was featured in the book Majulah! 50 Years of the Malay/Muslim Community in Singapore published in 2016. She was in the Singapore Foreign Service from 2005 to 2015, serving in Berlin and in Delhi. From 2015 to 2017, she was a member of the Advisory Council of the Global Diplomacy Lab. She is also an alumna of the ZEIT-Stiftung's "Asian Forum on Global Governance." From 2004 to 2005, she worked closely with Harvard Business School's Professor Michael Porter on the Kazakhstan Competitiveness Program. A graduate of the London School of Economics and Warwick University, she was a "British Council Pathfinder" scholar and was awarded the "University of Warwick Singapore Scholarship."

Cornelius Adebahr is a political analyst and entrepreneur based in Berlin, Germany, working on European foreign policy in its broadest sense. He is an associate fellow at the German Council on Foreign Relations, a non-resident fellow at Carnegie Europe in Brussels, and a fellow at the Hertie School of Governance in Berlin. In 2015 and 2016, he was an assistant professor at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., after having taught at the Willy Brandt School of Public Policy at Erfurt University from 2005 to 2011. He is a member of the European Commission's speaker network "Team Europe", and was, in 2002 to 2003, a fellow of the Robert Bosch Foundation's Post-Graduate Program in International Affairs. He is the author of Europe and Iran: The Nuclear Deal and Beyond (2017) and Inside Iran: Alte Nation und neue Macht (2018). He studied Political Science (International Relations), Philosophy, Public Law, and International Economics in Tübingen, Paris, and at the Freie Universität Berlin, where he graduated in 2001 before receiving his Ph.D. (Dr. rer. pol.) in 2008.

Maria Adebahr studied law and modern history in Paris, Halle, Siena, Florence, Berlin and New York. In 2004, after passing the second state law examination, she commenced work as a research fellow in the field of international law at the Freie Universität Berlin. In 2006 she entered the foreign service. Following her attaché training, Maria Adebahr took up her first post with the Afghanistan Task Force in Berlin. From 2009 she worked in the Press Division as a spokesperson for Afghanistan and Asia, before moving to the German Embassy in Tehran in 2011 to take up the post of Consul. In summer 2013 she moved to a new post in the political affairs section of the German Embassy in Washington, D.C., where she was responsible for the Middle East dossier. In 2016, Maria Adebahr returned to Berlin, joining the Federal Foreign Office Policy Planning Staff with responsibility for the United States. From February 2017 she served as Deputy Spokesperson for the Federal Foreign Office. She has been the Federal Foreign Office Spokesperson since March 2018.

Netta Ahituv is a senior correspondent and editor at Haaretz, a leading liberal newspaper in Israel. In 2014, she won the “Pratt Prize” for journalism in the category of Extensive and Important Body of Work. She also has a weekly radio program about urbanism at Galatz Radio Station. She is a frequent guest in news panels in varied TV and radio programs, both local and international. She has a Master in Environmental Philosophy and a Bachelor in Biology and Humanities, both from Tel Aviv University. She founded a women's soccer league in Israel, in which 100 women play soccer weekly as a hobby and as an empowering tool, and has launched the Little Sun project, in which solar lights were being delivered to children in Gaza.

Niels Annen is Minister of State at the Federal Foreign Office since 2018. He is a member of the German Bundestag, where he represents the electoral district Hamburg-Eimsbüttel. He is also a member of the Social Democratic Party's (SPD) executive committee. Annen was first elected to the Bundestag in 2005, and was a member until 2009, before being re-elected in 2013. From 2013 until 2017 he was a permanent member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and a substitute member of the Committee on Economics and Energy. Mr. Annen also served as deputy spokesperson of the Parliamentary Left from 2014 until 2018, the largest political grouping within the SPD Parliamentary Group. Between 2014 and 2015, he represented the SPD Parliamentary Group in the Commission on the Review and Safeguarding of Parliamentary Rights regarding Mandates for Bundeswehr Mission Abroad.
